What's New in the?

Amazon has a former payment processing specialist and former Yipit user on its paid AMZN:MONEY team, and last year a former user who we'd previously contacted for Alexa wins AlexaFulfilled: QUICK PAY LLC In the most recent developer contest, we chose the reward of a $2 Amazon.com gift card for winning the skill with the most correct responses. The winning skill from this contest was AlexaFulfilled: I WAS AT GROUND ZERO for "refugees" with 27% correct answers. The skill was based on our AlexaWorks contest entry for winning the "Business Pitch" contest in the Alexa Skills Kit Developer Challenge in August. That was over a year ago, and since then it has been deleted. I've written and reached out to Amazon several times asking why it was deleted. I never get any response. I started using Vocalize last year to learn how to speak. I was pretty impressed with what was available, and it was less expensive than Amazon's existing software, so I decided to register for the contest. When the rules said that you needed to have a desktop app to upload or access your response, I chose Vocalize and registered, then submitted the score sheet. It took less than 24 hours from when I first registered to when the submission was accepted. I then waited and then submitted the receipt. I received no feedback. As I got ready to drive home from submitting the score, I received the email alert from AlexaFulfilled. For that one I went online to understand what it was, but I never received any explanation as to why my response was not acceptable. I've since bought the desktop app for $29.95 to submit scores again, but there seems to be something rotten in Denmark when it comes to quality control at AlexaFulfilled. Last year, a couple of friends set up the I WAS AT GROUND ZERO skill, and in the two-and-a-half years it has been up it has received over four hundred thousand responses from around the world. Amazon has not been entirely truthful. This year is supposed to be the year that Alexa will be able to talk with you. The voice-activated virtual assistant is supposed to be able to understand the meaning of your words, and for that it needs a Voice Understanding System from Wavii and an Echo to leverage their technology. But Amazon has not
